What We Do

A bonded and insured DocuSav photographer will video record and photograph your valuables and provide you with a copy of these records on tape and/or computer disk. In addition to the copies you keep, we maintain a file in a secure, fire-safe environment should you ever need them for an insurance claim or for any other reason. This is all done with strict privacy and confidentiality.

Why do this? Insurance companies have begun to play hardball when paying claims. Just a small percentage of fraudulent claims has forced the entire industry to get tough. In virtually every claim, the insured needs to prove they actually owned the item before a claim is paid.

We Make It Easy

Before our photographer arrives, you'll receive a preparation kit. This will assist you in listing all of your valuables. We urge you to have everything ready prior to our field representative's arrival. You'll need to list all items of value and make all purchase receipts, appraisals, serial numbers, and purchase dates available. All these supportive records will be documented along with the photographs and videos of your belongings.

Our representative will first do a walk-through of your home and video all items such as furniture, dinette sets, computer equipment, etc. We realize that the "small" items add up, so clothes, toys, open closets, drawers, contents of your attic and garage should be documented as well.

Feel Secure

Most people are aware that accurate records and photos of valuables are necessary to receive full value when making an insurance claim, yet few individuals maintain such records.

Can you do this yourself? Of course you can, but the fact is, few people have the proper equipment or the means to electronically store the records. Our service relieves you of the trouble and is very affordable.
